

CITY LIMITS

THE CITIZEN

This wine is like the kid in high school that was kind to everyone and carried a quiet confidence. The one that had seemingly no enemies and loved to laugh, and then went on to do great things without being flashy about it. You wish you could hang out again and talk about life. This wine is like that.

Fruit comes in on the nose with warm plum that soon gives way to notes of young blackberry. There is a complete mouthfeel, with soft tannins and a nice zip of acid on the finish.

A portion of the proceeds from City Limits goes to NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness). NAMI.org provides advocacy, education, support and public awareness so that all individuals and families affected by mental illness can build better lives.
