PINK STREET ROSÉ

City Limits is the edge, the place where dirt and brush turn to concrete and culture, where farm meets fashion, and high desert meets high rise.

It's where vines, sun, moon, wind, rain, and a year of seasons find your glass.

THE STORY

"One day it came to me as I drove past this sign after 10 years of time. We (the producers) travel far and wide outside of the City Limits to work with farmers and source fruit to make wine. We then take that produce and create something beautiful, and we present it to the people within the City Limits. We bring the rural land to the urban people in a bottle of wine.

Wine was before us. It will be after us. It is not a trend or a fad. Wine is beautiful and it will endure. We bring fruit that is grown beyond the City Limits to people who live within the City Limits to spread the love of Washington Wine." -Morgan Lee, Winemaker

F^*k CANCER

The Pink Street label is an homage to Morgan's brother, Tanner Lee. Tanner fought cancer and lost, but during his years he lived well and loved to skate. The Pink Street label was designed by a dear friend. The picture is of Tanner skating along the Chicago River before a shift at the restaurant where he worked. He is loved and missed dearly. This wine provides us a platform to talk about Tanner, celebrate his life, and provide proceeds to fight cancer, which affects so many of us in this life.
